

Social Studies

and Web 2.0

Curious about how to use Web 2.0 tools in a meaningful way in your social studies classes? You'll leave this workshop—conducted by fellow teachers—able to start using Web 2.0 tools with your students.

March 27, 2009

LAPDA Meeting Space
Montpelier, VT

$60

8:30–3:00

To register, go to www.lapdavn.org/

For more information, contact Sigrid Lumbra at sigrid.lumbra@state.vt.us or 802.828.0200

Door Prizes donated by VITA-Learn:
iPod Nano & iPod

Agenda:

Create Your Own Country Using Google Earth (Lucie deLaBruere): Redesign a traditional social studies activity—creating your own country.

Pharaoh's Wiki (Jody Emerson): Use Web 2.0 tools such as del.icio.us, wikis, blogs, and videos to analyze a Pharaoh's governing decisions.

Revolution and Propaganda (Don Taylor & Lauren Chabot): Learn how to examine revolution and propaganda through the integration of 21st century skills and technology such as Moodle, Google Docs, Podcasting, Wikis, and Inspiration.

Getting to Know You...Through a Collaborative Social Studies Project (Lori Morse & Sarah Ibson): a World War I unit that allows the students from different schools to collaborate via a wiki after reading Private Peaceful by Michael Morpurgo.

Vcite.org
Vermont Commons
for Information Technology Educators

High Quality Professional Development
LAPDA
Lamoille Area Professional Development Academy
250 Main St., Suite 202, Montpelier, VT 05602

 VERMONT
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

