

Social Studies

and Web 2.0

Curious about how to use Web 2.0 tools in a meaningful way in your social studies classes? You'll leave this workshop—conducted by fellow teachers—able to start using Web 2.0 tools with your students.

April 2, 2009

Hands-On Agenda:

Castleton State College
8:30–3:00

$100

To register, go to
<http://www.castleton.edu/centerforschools/courses.htm>

For more information contact Sigrid Lumbra at sigrid.lumbra@state.vt.us

Wikis Wow! (Lauren Kelley-Parren): Come see the wiki used by ALL 140 10th grade US History students at Mt. Abe.

Collaborating on Social Studies Projects Using Google Presentation (Maureen Dobart and/or Bjorn Behrendt): Using Google Presentation, multiple students can be working collaboratively on the same document at the same time using their own computers.

Looking at Ourselves—Google Earth and Google Maps (Dave Davidson): Explore many of the features of Google Earth and Google Maps.

Door Prizes donated by VITA-Learn:
iPod Nano & iPod

